67-11-10-03. Credential standards. Each applicant for a teacher of students with emotional disturbance credential must meet the standards in this section. The documentation on each standard must be verified by the department before any special education credential is issued. The standards are as follows:

1. Prior to August 1, 2003:

- a. An applicant must hold a valid North Dakota educator's professional license issued by the education standards and practices board in accordance with North Dakota Century Code sections 15.1-13-10, 15.1-13-11, and 15.1-13-23 and North Dakota Administrative Code title 67.1, based on a bachelor's degree with a certifiable major or minor or an endorsement in elementary or secondary education.
- b. Areas of preparation of teachers in emotional disturbance include the coursework listed in this subdivision. The coursework must be taken primarily at the graduate level from a college or university with accreditation in this area and offering a major in special education that includes study in the areas listed in this subdivision. Because not all of these are course titles, applicants must have their transcripts and course content evaluated by the department of public instruction staff. All candidates who are to be employed as emotional disturbance teachers must hold either an elementary or secondary educator's professional license. Emotional disturbance teachers with a secondary educator's professional license must have an elementary mathematics methods and an elementary reading methods course and must complete a practicum in emotional disturbance as outlined by the applicant's college or university. The final practicum in working with children with emotional disturbance must be provided after other qualifications are met. If the practicum is offered in two units, both the initial practicum and the advanced practicum must be completed to meet this requirement. Including the hours attributable to the practicum, the applicant must take the equivalent of at least twenty-four semester hours of graduate credit. The additional credits must include coursework in each of these areas:
 - (1) Exceptional children and youth.
 - (2) Introduction to the area of emotional disturbance, which includes psychopathology of childhood and adolescence.
 - (3) Methods of teaching children with emotional disturbance.
 - (4) Developmental psychology.
 - (5) Behavior management, which typically includes a study of student reaction to frustration, response to failure, emotional problems, and ways of managing problems in the classroom.
 - (6) Assessment and test interpretation of children and youth with disabilities. This course must contain considerable experience in the use of information from tests as they relate to curriculum, adjustment, and behavior.

- (7) Methods and materials in specific learning disabilities. It is typical that the course will describe the intent of materials, modifying and adapting materials, problem-solving methods, interventions including behavior modification and other applied learning theory; or specific learning disability practicum.
 - (8) Interdisciplinary and community resources and consultation skills.
 - (9) Family or home school relations.
 - (10) Guidance or educational alternatives.
- c. For students completing a four-year undergraduate degree from a university with appropriate accreditation in this area, two additional graduate-level courses will be required and must include an advanced seminar in emotional disturbance and emotional disturbance practicum.
2. After July 31, 2003, an applicant must have:

A valid North Dakota educator's professional license issued by the education standards and practices board in accordance with North Dakota Century Code sections 15.1-13-10, 15.1-13-11, and 15.1-13-23 and North Dakota Administrative Code title 67.1, based on a bachelor's degree with a certifiable major or minor or an endorsement in elementary or secondary education; and
